6) Bye-laws I mean, Dhanur, some reasons "for the purpose" here must I suppose refer to places for burial & not for cutting or opening the carcass

7) If the intention is to prevent Carcasses being cut up or opened in places other than that set apart for this purpose by the M'C', a specific bye-law on this point may be better. Moreover in order to enforce such a prohibition & also the obligation under bye-law 2 proposed, it may be necessary to impose a duty on the person referred to even in bye-law 1 to make a report of death before removal of the carcass, & whether for burial or for cutting up or opening it —

8) The arrangement & the language of the bye-laws of Body printed at pages 230 - 232 may perhaps be adopted as the basis of the draft further revised accordingly —
